[Do not open this book], by Michaela Muntean was a very differently styled picture book to what I am used to reading. The beginning started out with the main character, a pig, telling the reader not to open the book. What caught me off guard at the start of reading the book was how personal the pig got to the reader.

The first book of its kind. A children's book written for adults (young and old) who still hold to the wonder, inspiration and imagination of a child's heart and mind. Created by a young single appropriately handsome fellow (or so he says) and illustrated by his Mischievous young daughter (now 7, and still mischievous). This little book is unlike Anything you have ever seen. Whereas other books stay unchanged and remain static, and hold to a single story, The Very Essence of this book continues to change... Sometimes weekly, monthly, or even daily (even without you knowing). Open it, and you will hear music. Open it another day and you will learn about philosophy, science, understanding, humanity... Each time you open this book it may carry you on to a new story, a new inspiration, and an opening into a world you know and the world you do not know. But how is this done you ask. How is something like this even possible? What makes this book so unique... is that it interacts with your smartphone and your tablet. It is one of the first books Ever Written to incorporate QR Code technology Right into it's pages. And in the process you will See something New Every Time... like peering through the eye of a looking glass. But beware young traveler, this book IS a journey, and it WILL change you
