Barbara Jones. 4.16 · Rating details · 266 ratings · 26 reviews. Raised in a multi-ethnic farming community, Afrikaner Christo Brand was confused and saddened when he first confronted the realities of South African apartheid. Conscripted into the military at 18, Brand chose to serve as a prison guard rather than embrace the brutality and danger inherent in the work of soldiers and policemen.

From Nelson Mandela's prison guard to close friend, Christo Brand talks to Luxury Gold about his life with this important figure. "We must share the fruits of our labour in this century – we are only here for a short time", are the words spoken by Nelson Mandela, my teacher, my friend, my prisoner. Aged 18, I was positioned as Mandela's prison guard on Robben Island.

James Gregory (7 November 1941 – 2003) was the censor officer and prison guard of Nelson Mandela for many years of his captivity. He later wrote the book Goodbye Bafana: Nelson Mandela, My Prisoner, My Friend, on which the 2007 film Goodbye Bafana was based. The book, and later the film, are based on the idea that Gregory and Mandela had developed a friendship despite being prison guard and prisoner, respectively.

“I was 19 years old when I came face-to-face with Nelson Mandela,” writes Christo Brand, in his memoir Doing Life with Mandela: My Prisoner, My Friend. “He was 60. Until that day I’d never heard of him, or his African National Congress. I was his prison warden on Robben Island and he changed my life forever.”
